Mr. Russell T. Bryant, Esq.
245 Crogan Street N.W.
Lawrenceville, GA 30045

Dear Russell,

I wanted to write this letter in commemoration of and thanks for the 15 years of stellar performance in representing both my personal and corporate affairs.

While reviewing legal files last week, I looked through all the matters which have required your services through the years. Not once have we ever lost a business or personal case you have represented me or my company on. That encompasses everything from a two year long lawsuit to 100% collection on a personal debt owed to me.

In the course of our 20 years in business, my company, Esoteric Sports, has frequently run into situations where hotels around the United States try to breach sleeping rooms contracts we have previously negotiated. In every instance where we have engaged your services, you have forcefully persuaded them that it is best for them to reaffirm such contracts and not breach them.

As well, you have provided countless instances of sage legal wisdom in regards to Esoteric Sports contracts with our own customers. Your legal guidance and assistance in writing our own contractual language for our own business deals has, no doubt, saved us hundreds of thousands of dollars and, more importantly, saved us the hours and hours aggravation that would have been sure to follow.

But I have to save my largest kudos, for your amazing work in what probably was the greatest Plaintiff's victory ever in Gwinnett County residential construction litigation case history. While I am prevented from discussing the specifics of the case against a prominent local high-end home builder, I can say, with no reservations whatsoever, that your tenacious, exhaustive, brilliant legal work yielded the greatest final resolution that could have ever been possibly expected in a negligent construction / fraud case. And, a further collateral victory against the wood flooring company involved as a result of the original litigation. A Grand Slam by any measure at all.

There is one thing, just as important, that I must thank you for not doing. In a profession filled with many who are incompetent and even more who do nothing spend client's retainers as fast as possible and bill hour after hour for needless services, you have continually been the voice of reason and watched my money for me, always counseling me both professionally and personally to try as hard as possible to settle disputes, rather than going to the expense of retaining your services. This is a trait unheard of in today's lawyer/client relationships.

In closing, thank you and congratulations. For me personally, and on behalf of my company, your performance and results have always been nothing less than stellar. Here's looking to many more years of a fruitful attorney/client relationship.

With Warmest Regards,

Carey Dean
President
